Clintonville Lions Club Installs 50th Ramp

The Clintonville Lions reached a milestone in mid June, having constructed and installed its fiftieth wheelchair ramp for those in need. A committee of dedicated Lions has been doing this community service project for the past nineteen years. The club's commitment to build to building ramps began in 1999 when then high school shop teacher and Lions member Al Mattson was asked by an elderly Clintonville resident if he could build a needed ramp. Service to others was always in his blood. So he single handedly designed and constructed that ramp.

While building that first ramp, Lion Al began to develop a vision for having the club take on wheelchair ramp building as a community service project for those in need. Through his leadership and dedication, the club took on what has become in the intervening years its signature service project. In the service project's beginnings, the club installed one or two ramps per year, and for a couple of years there were none built. In the more recent years, the club has constructed and installed as many as ten in one year. This year, so far, three ramps have been installed. It never knows when the next request will be made.

Ramps that are no longer needed are reclaimed by the club. The ramp sections are unbolted from each other, and the sections are put in storage for future needs. Of the fifty ramps the club has installed over the years, eighteen have since been reclaimed. Thirty-two ramps are currently in use.

Lion Al passed away last summer. As his health began to fail, he took steps to ensure that the Clintonville Lions would continue ramp building into the future. In those last months of his life he passed the torch of leadership for the project on to Lion Ralph Williams, who took over leadership of the club's committee responsible for ramp installations. On the committee with Lion Ralph is Lions Lowell Easley, Cinthy Helms, and Jerry Oestreich.

Other club members and non-Lions will help out as needed along with others non-Lions. Anyone interested in getting involved with constructing and installing ramps can contact one of the committee members to volunteer.

Every ramp installation is unique. While no two installations are the same, thanks to Lion Al's foresight and detailed planning, sections of ramp are built to standard sizes and uniformity so they can be arranged and bolted together to meet the needs of the different site locations. Some times, though, a special non-standard section has to be designed to accommodate a given situation.

In remembrance of Lion AL and to further his ramp building legacy, the club has created a charitable 501(c)(3) foundation named the Allan Mattson Wheelchair Ramp Foundation. The foundation was formed to encourage tax deductible contributions to financially help the club continue its goal of providing ramps for those in need.

Anyone wishing to make a tax deductible contribution to the wheelchair ramp foundation may do so by contacting Clintonville Lions treasurer Brian Lange at his KerberRose office in the old railroad depot at 25 E. 3rd Street in Clintonville.

The Clintonville Lions are always looking for new members interested in serving their community. Lions are the world's largest service organization with 46,000 clubs in more than 200 countries with 1.35 million members. (Credit: Lowell Easley)

Heat Exhaustion VS Heat Stroke

Know the Signs, Symptoms & How to Prevent Both

Getting too hot in the sun or in hot, humid conditions is not a good thing! Whether we are working or playing in the sun or just watching an outdoor event, heat exhaustion and heat stroke can happen. For example, spectators at the upcoming Manawa Mid-Western Rodeo could develop heat issues simply from sitting outdoors for an extended period in the sun if conditions are unseasonably hot and humid.

In addition, if outdoor spectators are drinking alcoholic beverages, wearing excess clothing, or not drinking sufficient water, they can easily develop heat issues. Dehydration is a major factor in causing heat exhaustion or heat stroke.

Exercising or working outdoors in hot, humid conditions brings on heat exhaustion, which might lead

Exercising or working outdoors in hot, humid conditions brings on heat exhaustion, which might lead to heat stroke if left untreated. Heat stroke is a serious concern as it can cause the patient to go into shock, suffer brain damage, and/or cause internal organs to shut down.

Because Wisconsin's climate is so changeable, most people don't become adjusted to hot weather, which often hits our area in sudden bursts over a few days. It takes several days to adjust to hot, humid conditions, which makes people who work and play outdoors more susceptible to heat issues during stretches of unseasonably warm weather.

Signs and symptoms of heat exhaustion include dizziness, headache, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, heavy sweating, and a weak, but rapid pulse. If someone exhibits those symptoms, it's important to get that person out of the sun into a cooler environment, get them to drink fluids (especially a sports drink that includes sodium and potassium), and rest and recover. They are done with sun exposure for that day!

Heat stroke, on the other hand, is a more serious condition. People suffering heat stroke will have a high body temperature (104 degrees, possibly), mental confusion, slurred speech, nausea and vomiting, flushed skin, rapid breathing, and a racing heart rate. They will no longer be sweating; instead their skin may be cold and clammy. If someone shows those symptoms, it is imperative to get that person into the shade, remove excess clothing, and cool them down with whatever means possible – spray with cool water, put into a tub of cool water, place an ice pack on their head, neck, and groin. If the person doesn't respond to those efforts, take them to the nearest medical facility or call 911.

Heat stroke is serious. It can damage the heart, brain, and other organs. The longer treatment is delayed, the more serious the complications can become. When we're having fun in the summer sun, it's important to be aware of how our body and our friends' bodies are reacting to conditions. Overheating issues can quickly become serious. Drinking lots of water and preventing overheating are the best ways to ensure we have a fun day in the sun.

Specialized Products Makes Donation

A big "Thank you!" to Specialized Products of Clintonville for choosing the Clintonville Clothes Closet as the recipient of their spring clothing drive. Specialized Products donated over 2,000 clothing and personal hygiene items that were dispersed among the three clothes closets located at each school. Not only did it provide vital supplies to students and families in need, but it also provided life skills for students with disabilities. These students took in all of the donations, sorted, washed, folded and hung up clothing based on size. This allowed them to take the skills they are taught in the classroom and apply them to a real-life scenario. The clothes closets are available to all students in the Clintonville Public School District. Contact Becky Schoenike at rschoenike@clintonville.k12.wi.us for more information on how to donate or access the clothes closets. Have a great summer break!

Rotary Says Farewell

Saying goodbye was the order of business at this week's meeting. Jorge Diaz, our Rotary Youth Exchange student arrived from Calama, Chile last August and will be heading home next Tuesday. At today's meeting, Jorge was joined by his host family Jill Meyer, Chuck Manske, and Jill's granddaughter Felicity, who looked up to Jorge like he was her big brother. The family was presented a recognition plaque by our Youth Exchange Officer Sue Aschliman to commemorate their contribution to the club. There was also a cake as well as a lot of light-hearted stories and questions for Jorge about his time with the club. Here is to safe travels and warm memories.

Rotary Serves 8th Grade Breakfast at CHS

Our club was pleased to host the annual Clintonville Rotary 8th Grade Breakfast again this year at the Clintonville High School Commons. We invite all of the eighth grade students from city public and parochial schools for breakfast and a welcome to high school as they represent the incoming Freshman class at CHS.

Most of the 110 invited incoming students were present along with several members of the staff and administration from the schools. Rotary volunteers were there early to set the tables and prepare to serve the meal as the students arrived shortly after 8 a.m.

Rotarian Carl Bruggink served as MC and welcomed the students. Carl's first order of business was to introduce the new incoming High School Principal Kelly Zeinert. Zeinert, nee Heiman, is a 1987 CHS graduate and is returning here from her current position as Principal of Shiocton High School. She greeted the students and welcomed them to high school.

Rotary President Mike Papendorf extended a greeting and gave a quick overview of what Rotary is. Rotary Youth exchange officer Sue Aschliman introduced Jorge Diaz, our exchange student from Chile. Superintendent and Rotarian David Dyb spoke to the students.

The program for the event was four very recently graduated seniors Xander Huber, Kelly Shepard, Jordan Tellock and Caitlin Kestell who spoke to the incoming frosh class from their student's perspective.

Avoid These 401(k) Mistakes - KerberRose

If you're serious about saving for retirement, it's hard to find a more attractive way to save than through your 401(k) plan. To help maximize the potential benefits from your plan, avoid these common mistakes:

Waiting until your financial situation improves to participate. Don't postpone participating, thinking it will be easier to find the money for contributions when you get older and have more discretionary income. The earlier you start contributing, the more time your contributions have to compound and grow.

Not contributing as much as you can to the plan. Your contributions, up to a maximum of $18,500 in 2018 (up from $18,000 in 2017) are deducted from gross pay, so you don't pay current income taxes on the contributions (you must still pay Social Security and Medicare taxes). In addition, earnings and capital gains on your investments can grow tax deferred until withdrawn. When you withdraw money, you'll have to pay income taxes on the contributions and earnings (and a 10% federal penalty may be due if withdrawals are made before age 59 1/2), but this tax-deferred growth means you could have a larger investment balance at that time than if you had been paying taxes currently during the years. Aim to contribute as much as possible to the plan, although your employer will probably set a limit in terms of a percentage of your pay to comply with government regulations. However, don't just randomly select a percentage to contribute. Take time to calculate how much you'll need at retirement and how much you should be saving annually to help you reach that goal.

Not maximizing employer matching contributions. If you can't afford to contribute the maximum permitted by the plan, at least contribute enough to take full advantage of any employer matching contributions. If you are contributing the maximum and your employer matches contributions, make sure your contributions are taken out of your pay uniformly throughout the year. Many employers match contributions as they are made, so you could forgo any further matching if you reach the annual maximum before the end of the year.

Not reviewing your investment choices carefully. Since you are responsible for investment decisions in your 401(k) plan, understand each available alternative before making a choice. Keep in mind the long-term nature of your retirement goal and select investments that are appropriate for that time period.

Not having a clear investment focus. Devise an asset allocation plan to guide your investment decisions, including investments held outside your 401(k) plan. Understand your investment objectives and stick with them so you aren't tempted to sell immediately after market declines.

Not monitoring your 401(k) balances. Take time to understand the format of your periodic statements and the information included. At least annually, analyze your current investment allocations to decide if changes are needed.

Borrowing from your 401(k) plan. While it can be comforting to know you can gain access to your 401(k) funds, only borrow as a last resort. You are borrowing from yourself and will pay interest to yourself, but there are also hidden costs to this borrowing.

Raiding your 401(k) plan before retirement. When leaving their current company, many participants are tempted to withdraw money from their 401(k) plans. Resist this temptation -- remember that your 401(k) plan is for your retirement and leave the money invested until you retire. If you withdraw the money, not only do you deplete your retirement fund, you also must pay ordinary income taxes on the distribution and a 10% federal penalty if you are under age 59 1/2 (55 if you are retiring).

Not saving outside your 401(k) plan as well. While 401(k) plans are an excellent way to save for retirement, for many people 401(k) plans alone will not provide sufficient funds for a long retirement. Consider your retirement needs in detail to determine whether you should be saving outside a 401(k) plan as well.

FWD Seagrave Museum – Work Day

Braving hot temperatures and high humidity, 25+ volunteers gathered at the FWD Seagrave Museum this past Saturday. The goal was to get the building cleaned and organized and the property mowed and trimmed. The event also provided an opportunity for the volunteers to see how much has been achieved at this location in such a short time.

Since our community-wide meeting in April 2017, many exciting developments continue to occur. As of this writing, we are quickly approaching an inventory of 60 antique vehicles located at our two buildings. The latest acquired building at 325 E.15th Street has seen many improvements with six additional rooms cleaned, painted and becoming filled with additional displays and exhibits. (For history buffs, this is the former Topp-Stewart factory with original signage still visible inside.)

We continue working toward our goal of becoming not only a truck museum but a research resource to professors, students, authors and truck enthusiasts. We have an understanding with a local resident to display his extensive collection of hit and miss engines and this display is presently under construction. We are considering other collections on a loan basis or possible permanent basis.

This volunteer endeavor would not have been possible without the combined efforts of a group called “The Clintonville Experiment” spearheaded by Chuck Manske. Consisting of community-minded residents, this group began meeting in late February to discuss “project areas of opportunity” to attract and keep people living and working in Clintonville. After three meetings, the group felt it was necessary to put into action a volunteer project designed to help an organization reach the reality of “opening their doors” to visitors on a more consistent basis which in turn brings business to stores, restaurants and other businesses. We believe the FWD Seagrave Museums will attract more heads in beds in Clintonville than anything else the City has to offer.

If you believe in our vision and would like to continue volunteering at the museum, please contact Barbara Koster, FWD Museum Coordinator at bajeko54@gmail.com. If you have any old FWD or Seagrave memorabilia you wish to donate, please contact us. Like most small-town museums, we have a “wish list” of items that would assist our efforts.
